Anti-Corruption Policy

Thanachart Capital Plc. (the “Company”) realizes the harmful and obtrusive effects of corruption on social and economic development. In essence, it is a wrong business practice, which creates uneven playing field and could damage ethical reputation and competitiveness of the Company leading to rejection from domestic and international entities as well as a decline in confidence among shareholders, investors, and all stakeholders. The Company, thus, adheres to the principles of not providing any support to any enterprise, group of people, or person involved in exploitation, either directly or indirectly, abusing their power/ authorities. The Company has a clear direction to cooperate with and support government as well as private sectors. It, thus, formulates the Anti-Corruption Policy in accordance with regulators’ guidelines and “the Private Sector Collective Action Coalition against Corruption (CAC)” as the key principles for directors, executives, and any employee to follow. Details are as seen below.

1. Definition

“Corruption” refers to any form of misuse of power made in attempt to gain undue advantage, including any type of bribery; offering, promising, giving, or accepting money, asset, or anything of value to a public official, government unit, private company, or person of duties, either directly or indirectly, to induce favorable actions or restrain the person from performing duties and obtain or retain undue business advantages.

2. Anti-Corruption Policy

Directors, executives, and employees of the Company must not request, act, or accept any form of corruption, either directly or indirectly, for the benefits of the organization, themselves, their families, friends, acquaintances, or their business. The policy applies to all businesses of the Company in any country and all relevant units. Verification to ensure compliance with the Anti-Corruption Policy is to be conducted on a regular basis, including reviews of guidelines and requirements to ensure alignment with the changes in business, regulations, rules, or official requirements. In case of breach of the policy, any act considered as facilitative to, or implicated in corruption, shall be subject to penalties as stipulated by the Company’s policies.

3. Duties and Responsibilities

3.1 The Board of Directors of the Company undertakes its duties and responsibilities to formulate and approve the Anti-Corruption Policy, as well as ensure that efficient system for countering corruption is provided to help the Management recognize the importance and put the Policy into practice that it becomes a part of organizational culture.

- 3.2 The Audit Committee undertakes its duties and responsibilities to conduct reviews ensuring the Company's sufficient internal control and full compliance with the Anti-Corruption Policy.
- 3.3 The Management undertakes its duties and responsibilities to ensure that systems are established, supports are provided, and supervision is carried out to ensure that all employees and concerned parties' practices are fully in compliance with the Anti-Corruption Policy. The responsibilities also include reviews on suitability of the systems and measures to accommodate changes in business, regulations, and official requirements.
- 3.4 The Audit team undertakes its duties and responsibilities to conduct audit and review ensuring that all practices comply with concerned policies, guidelines, regulations, and laws and that the Company has proper and sufficient internal control systems for countering corruption risks which may arise, and report the Audit Committee on any finding.
- 3.5 Directors, executives, and employees shall fully comply with the Anti-Corruption Policy and shall not be involved, directly or indirectly, in corruption.
- 3.6 Subsidiaries, associated companies, or business representatives under the Company's controlling authorities must accept and operate in compliance with the Company's Anti-Corruption Policy.

4.8 The Company stipulates that communication and public relation activities of Anti-Corruption Policy be carried out via both internal and external medias e.g. intranet, the Company's website, annual report. Such Policy of the Company is in compliance with Thai countering corruption laws.

5. Recommendations on the Anti-Corruption Measures

If any director, executive, or employee is unsure if his/ her practice complies with the Anti-Corruption Policy, the following points are recommended to be considered prior to any action or decision making:

1. Is the action legitimate considering the country's laws, regulations, and the Company's policies?
2. Is the action acceptable to the society? Can it be disclosed to the public?
3. Does the action violate ethics or cause reputational damage to the person, others, or the Company during that time or in the future?

After initial consideration, if there remains uncertainty, please inform the superior of relevant information and findings for his/ her consideration, or seek consultation with the Compliance team to collaboratively consider and resolve the issue.

Appendix

1. Definition of public officials

Public officials are “government officers” as defined by countering corruption laws, including public servants, officials, state-owned enterprise employees, representatives or other persons acting on behalf of the following entities:

- Ministries, government authorities, offices (e.g. customs, immigration);
- International organizations (e.g. World Bank, International Monetary Fund);
- Political parties, persons holding political positions, or candidates (whether in government or in opposition), local administration officers;
- Regulatory or judicial bodies (e.g. Securities and Exchange Commission, Bank of Thailand, Stock Exchange of Thailand); or
- State-owned enterprises, including corporations or organizations controlled by the government.

2. Definition of political contributions, charitable/ public benefit contributions, and sponsorships

- Political contributions

Political contributions are contributions made on behalf of the Company, financial or in-kind, to support political activities. Financial contributions can include loans. In-kind contributions can include gifts or services, advertising or promotional activities endorsing a political party, the purchase of tickets to fundraising events, and contributions to organizations with close associations with a political party, for instance, excepts contributions made to support the democratic process, which are permitted by laws.

- Charitable and Public benefit contributions

Charitable contributions involve payments made without tangible return.

Public benefit contributions are payments made to projects, activities for communities, societies, public, which the Company may not receive tangible return.

- Sponsorships

Sponsorships are different from charitable/ public benefit contributions as they are made for business objectives and usually for brand or reputation management purposes.

They can present risk as they involve payments made for services or benefits that are often hard to measure and track. Sponsorships can be subject to kickbacks; funds can be steered to front for corrupt purposes such as to create undue influence by sponsoring a favored cause.

3. Favorable considerations

Examples include awarding contracts, business or bidding opportunities; lowering or waiving fees; granting, facilitating or waiving licenses or permits outside of legitimate governmental decision-making processes; waiving or disregarding regulatory requirements; or granting or arranging access to public officials.
